Personalizing Pain Care with Pharmacogenetics
Featuring Forest Tennant, M.D

Dr. Tennant is a former U.S. Army Medical Officer and Public Health Physician. As a public health physician in Eastern Los Angeles County, he started a pain clinic in 1975 primarily for cancer and post-polio patients. After retiring from public health in 1998 he continued to operate his original pain clinic and does research in intractable pain. He has published over 300 articles primarily on pain, addiction, and neurochemistry. His major research interests are related to hormones and genetics in pain care. For over 10 years he has been the editor of Practical Pain Management that is circulated to 47,000 physicians who treat pain patients.
